General Grant beat the Democrats at Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Petersburg, and other places during the war, and now the Democrats have beaten him in the Senate.

Commissioner Bentley, of the pension office, raised Cain out of his office, and now Cain is raising Cain in the pension bureau. The row will possibly reveal some interesting facts.

The dead-lock in the Tennessee Legislature on the senatorial question has been broken by the election of Howell E. Jackson, a State credit Democrat, to the Senate. He has never served in Congress.

Several times the Gazette has made mention of the constitutional amendment proposed in Congress by ex-Governor Pontol, of this State, making the presidential term six years. The amendment was a good one, and should have been considered, but in the hurry of other business, not more important than this, it has been thrown aside for the present.

The many friends of Colonel E. A. Calkins, of the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph, will regret to learn that he has been a sufferer for some time from a paralytic affection of the spine resulting from army disease, and that his activity in getting about for business is seriously impaired. An effort is in progress to secure a pension for the Colonel which he deserves on general principles.

Here is an illustration, and an excellent one, of the comparative growth of two States. A short time ago the Inter-Ocean made the remark that in 1851 there were only ten miles of railroad in Wisconsin, and that now there are 3,133. But to show the astonishing growth of Kansas the Atchison Champion newspaper says: "As late as 1865 there was not a mile of railroad in Kansas, and now there are 3,104 miles."

The extensive dry-goods firm of Field, Leiter & Co., of Chicago, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Leiter retiring from the firm. Less than twenty years ago Field and Leiter were clerks in Chicago, and to-day the firm of Field, Leiter & Co., is one of the very largest in the West. Last year their sales reached $25,000,000. The store and stock is estimated to be worth from four to five millions. Mr. Leiter received about $1,500,000 for his share.

Judicial lightning has struck an Ohio man this time, at least the nomination for associate justice of the supreme court of the United States has fallen on Stanley Matthews. It is not to be wondered at that an Ohio man got the nomination, but it is a little surprising that it should be Stanley Matthews. He is a failure in more ways than one. He is a dead failure in the Senate and will very likely fail to be confirmed by the body of which he was once a member. There is much better judicial timber even in Ohio, than Stanley Matthews.

A "constant reader" wants to know what the Institute for the blind has to do with beer. It seems the other institutions require "clothing, food, beer," &c., but the Institute here can get along without that commodity. Our "constant reader" must remember that the other State institutions have a good many things that the Institute for the blind knows nothing about. The spirit of economy which controls the management of this institution does not trouble some of the other State institutions to any great extent.

THE "STEAL" AT MADISON.

A matter has come to light at Madison which reflects no honor on those who have charge of the clerical force in the Legislature. The dispatches to the Milwaukee papers from Madison give a sort of a history of the manner in which the State treasury has been plundered by those who have been called to do extra enrolling and engrossing for the Senate. Last Monday night Assemblyman Blakeslee, of Sauk county, offered a resolution calling for a committee to investigate the question of legislative employees, and Mr. Keene, of Grant county, set the ball in motion, by letting out some of the facts in regard to the steal accomplished by nearly all who had anything to do with enrolling and engrossing in the Senate. It is stated on the authority of the Secretary of State, that the amount of enrolling and engrossing certified to by the officers, and paid for by the State, is four times larger than the amount actually done! The amount over-paid for this kind of work in the Senate alone, is $3,000.

Secretary of State Warner has been interviewed on the subject, and he makes the statement that when the warrants were drawn last winter for the amount of so-called enrolling and engrossing, he suspected that there was fraud in it; but as the bills were certified to by the presiding officer of each house, he did not want to take the responsibility of refusing payment. In making an investigation of the matter, it has been ascertained that the number of folios of laws certified to by General Atwood, the public printer, was four times smaller than the number certified to by the legislative officers as having been enrolled by the various copyists. The dispatches say that Governor Smith and other State officers are exceedingly indignant over the facts that have come to light. They said it is bad enough to have the treasury robbed, but it is still worse that the money thus paid out wrongfully should have been paid to some persons whose characters are questionable.

A Republican administration does not want any work of this kind on its hands, and we are glad that none of the State officers are responsible for the frauds committed. The subject should be thoroughly investigated and the responsibility laid on the proper shoulders; and care should be taken that no such a practice is repeated. There are several plans suggested which would put an end to this system of cheating. One is to appoint a committee in each house which shall properly folio every bill; and the other is to have all the work done in the office of the Secretary of State where it can be superintended and fraud prevented.

GENERAL GARFIELD AND CABINET-MAKING.

In the history of this country there were never so many cabinets made for a President-elect as have been made for Garfield. More than a score of complete cabinets, ready to swear in and go to work, have been made by his particular friends since his election was announced. While all this industry in making up cabinets has been going on, not a word on the subject has fallen from the lips of the President-elect. Those who are closest to him in social relationship, and who do less meddling with the cabinet business than certain political schemers, have recently said that the General has not yet decided on his cabinet, and that it would be two or three weeks before anything of a definite character could be learned from the silent man at Mentor. It is proper to say, however, that General Garfield will appoint his own cabinet, and the very character of the man tells the country that the cabinet selected by him will be an honor to the Nation and a credit to the party.

It will not be an easy task for General Garfield to organize a cabinet which will be satisfactory to the two prominent factions of the Republican party. The Gazette has said repeatedly that it thought General Grant would make a remarkably good Secretary of State, for the reason that his experience abroad, and his personal acquaintance with nearly all the crowded heads of the world, would admirably qualify him for that office; and beside that General Grant would doubtless be glad to serve his country, and in fact the whole commercial world, by accepting the position. But it is not at all likely, that General Grant will be offered the place. For three or four weeks the name of Senator Blaine has been mentioned in connection with the State Department, and possibly excepting General Grant, there is no man in this country who would fill that responsible office with more ability than James G. Blaine. He thoroughly understands international law, and is a master of our whole commercial system, and for these reasons he would carry into the office of Secretary of State, a zeal, industry and ability, which would challenge the admiration of the country and receive the hearty endorsement of foreign powers.

But it is said that if Blaine is put in the State Department, the Grant faction will take it as an insult to them, and will therefore antagonize the administration of President Garfield. The chief man to please in the Grant wing of the Republican party is Senator Conkling. He rules that faction a marvelous power. The movements of the Grant wing are virtually at his beck. Occupying this position in the party and wielding the mighty influence which the country can see in every campaign he works, it is said he wants, probably not to dictate the appointment of one cabinet officer, but to suggest one which should be appointed. He will oppose Blaine with all the force at his command, and whether he will actually keep the Maine Senator out of the cabinet of the incoming administration, is one of the questions which can not be answered at this time.

It is not known whether General Garfield has tendered the Department of State to Senator Blaine. There is no evidence that he has offered him the place, and it is among the probabilities that he has not. We do not believe that he will make his appointments with a view to antagonize either the Grant or the Blaine wing of the Republican party. He can not afford to do that. General Garfield has a broad mind. No man in the United States has a wider acquaintance with public men than he. He is a man of sober judgment, and in all his brilliant career in Congress he has never engaged in party quarrels and has never lost sight of his country and his duty, to gratify a personal ambition. The good sense which has safely followed him during his eventful public life of nearly twenty years, will follow him to the White House, and will be with him when he names the persons who shall be his cabinet officers. We can hardly think that General Garfield will make a mistake at this important time. He is a man of large brain, of noble impulses, of excellent judgment, and it seems that it is not among the possible things for him to make any selection of a cabinet officer which will dishonor him or throw discredit upon the party. He has a large number of first class men to select from, and we believe he will be wise enough to choose some of the very best among them, and that the Blaine and the Grant wings of the party will have worthy representatives in the cabinet.

FROM MADISON.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, January 27.—In the Senate Senator Richardson introduced bills making certain appropriations for State institutions.

By Smith, to regulate the rate of interest fixing the legal rate at six per cent.

By Sutherland, amending the statute in regard to the town insurance companies.

By Burrows, amending the statutes relating to advertising sales of land for taxes.

The joint resolution for the appointment of a special committee to examine the report of the committee which investigated the Madison Insane Asylum, was killed after a long discussion; also the resolution favoring the purchase of a residence for the Governor.

ASSEMBLY.

In the Assembly a joint resolution was presented amending the constitution prohibiting the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

The joint resolution, appointing a committee to investigate the letting of convict labor, was adopted.

The consideration of the resolution instructing our representative in Congress to support the Reagan bill, was postponed to Thursday.

Bills were introduced providing for a system of town insurance, also a bill to define the liabilities of railroad companies in relation to damages sustained by their employees.

REPUBLICAN PROGRAMME.

A Senate Resolution Inviting the House to Witness the Electoral Count.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26.—The resolution presented in the Senate to-day by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas, inviting the House to be present in the Senate two weeks from to-day to count the Electoral votes, is the result of the deliberations of the Republican senatorial caucus committee. The resolution which was submitted is in the exact words of the resolution which was adopted in 1801 and 1805, and under which the electoral votes were counted in those years. If the House shall refuse to pass the Morgan electoral joint rule, as seems very probable, there will be no rules existing for counting the electoral vote. Some rule is necessary, and has always been adopted. If some of the conservative Democrats in the Senate, who have been talking of a new departure, such as Lamar, Ben Hill, and Joe Brown, shall be disposed to act with the Republicans in the Senate, it would be possible to pass this resolution, and to send it to the House. In that event, if the day for counting the electoral vote should approach, and no provision had been made for the manner in which the vote should be counted, it might be that Democrats enough would vote with the Republicans to pass the resolution of the Senate, and to accept the invitation, in accordance with the honored precedents of 1801 and 1805. This is the Republican programme for the quiet and orderly count of the electoral votes two weeks from to-day. It remains to be seen whether the Democrats will accept it, or will insist upon the arbitrary partisan rule now pending in the House, and in the event that that rule should not be adopted, would permit the day for the counting of the votes to arrive without any provision.

SENATOR-ELECT SAWYER.

Our New Senator is Welcomed Home by the Oshkosh Boys.

OSHKOSH, Jan. 26.—The Hon. Philatus Sawyer, Senator-elect arrived home tonight from Madison, and was tendered a reception at Turner Opera hall. A committee of citizens, consisting of Mayor

Dale, J. Horter, James V. Jones, and H. W. McKey, accompanied by a band of music and two companies of militia, met him at the depot and escorted him to the hall, where speeches were made by E. P. Finch, W. B. Felker, and J. V. Jones, when our new Senator responded in a short speech, after which he shook hands with all who met him.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

The Exhibition of the Rock County Poultry Association at Beloit.

BELOIT, Jan. 26.—The Rock County Association is holding its second annual exhibition here this week. The entries include a large percentage of unusually choice birds. W. H. Turmeau, of Clinton, is the largest exhibitor, having some eighty fine birds on exhibition. John R. Brabazon, of Delavan, comes next in the number of birds shown, having about seventy specimens. A. B. Miller, of Shirland, shows twenty-five birds, and R. B. Clark, of Beloit, about the same number. C. A. Keifer, of Sterling, Ill., is deciding as to the awards of the various colored ribbons.

WISCONSIN CENTRAL.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 26.—The report published to-day that the management of the Wabash railway had secured control of a majority of the stock of the Wisconsin Central railway is denied by President Colby. Central stock advanced to-day to 29½ for common. The second-series bonds sold up to 63, which is substantial evidence of the favor with which financiers regard the road.

THREE YEARS.

MADISON, Jan. 26.—Last evening William and Bertha Millard, of Black River Falls, were brought here by Marshal Oakley and Deputy Main, and lodged in jail. They were arrested in La Crosse January 17 for passing counterfeit dollars, and, when searched had about seventy-five "queer" dollars in an old stocking. This afternoon they were arraigned before Judge Bunn, pleaded guilty, and were sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Joliet. The woman might have claimed extenuating circumstances and received a lighter sentence, but she insisted on staying with her husband, and asked for the same sentence so that they might come out together and begin life anew. Millard is a thick-set, rather rough-looking man, of the class so common in lumber countries, while his wife is a mild-looking, blue-eyed little woman, without any appearance of possessing the courage to stick by her husband in the manner she has.

KEENE VS. SALVINI.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 26.—Thomas W. Keene, the young American tragedian, triumphed most signally over his Italian rival, Signor Salvini, to-night, the legend "standing-room only" being displayed at the portal of Pike's Opera house before the curtain rose on the first act, the receipts being over $1,300, while Salvini, who is at the Grand, the most popular house in town, played to a little over $400. In point of culture and intelligence Keene's audience was fully equal to the other. Keene played Richard III, while Salvini appeared as Ingomar.

A young woman now in Montana, was adored at 16 by a young man who was disliked by her parents. She reciprocated the tender feeling, but was an affectionate daughter and would not marry him. But she sternly resolved to let them know that she was a blighted being. She continued to live with her father and mother, but never spoke again. She is 31 now, but is still as dumb as a oyster. Through the partition of her room she will sometimes listen to the conversation of those in the adjoining apartment, and occasionally, several days after it has taken place, it will be found on paper in her room written out verbatim.

This is the origin of the phrase, "I acknowledge the corn." In 1828 Mr. Stewart, a member of Congress, said in a speech that Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana sent their haystacks, cornfields, and flocks to New York and Philadelphia for sale. Mr. Wickliff, of Kentucky, called him to order, declaring that those States did not send haystacks or cornfields to New York for sale. "What do you send?" asked Stewart. "Why, horses, mules, cattle, and hogs. Well, what makes your horses, mules, cattle, and hogs? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse? You just amimate and get upon the top of your haystack and ride off to market. How is it with your cattle? You make one of them carry $50 worth of hay or grass to the Eastern market. How much corn does it take at 33 cents a bushel to fatten a hog?" "Why, 30 bushels." "Then you put 30 bushels into the shape of a hog and make it walk off to the Eastern market." Then Mr. Wickliff jumped up and said: "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."

"What is the origin of the sign 'S' for the American dollar?" was the question propounded at a London dinner not long ago. The American Consul did not know, neither did any one else. An extensive research resulted in this theory: The American dollar is taken from the Spanish dollar, and the sign is to be found, of course, in the associations of a Spanish dollar is a representation of the Pillars of Hercules, and round each pillar is a scroll with the inscription, "Plus ultra." This device in the course of time has degenerated into the sign which stands at present for the American dollar, and the sign is to be found, of course, in the associations of a Spanish dollar is a representation of the Pillars of Hercules, and round each pillar is a scroll with the inscription, "Plus ultra." ### Two Approaching Comets.

Two periodical comets are now approaching perihelion, but it is not likely that either of them will become visible for some weeks yet, unless in the largest telescopes. They are expected to be nearest the earth on the 3d of October (at the distance 1.09 that of the sun), but will not be in perihelion until the 22d of January next year. It was discovered on November 22, 1843, and observed at each of the subsequent returns, passing its perihelion on the last occasion on July 18, 1873. This comet was detected by Mr. Common at Ealing, with his large reflector, on August 2, in the position given by Dr. Axel Moller's ephemeris. The theoretical intensity of light at this date was 0.078, which rather exceeds that at the first and last observations at the appearance in 1850-51. The comet was very small and extremely faint when the sky was not quite black. The faintness of the comet will prevent its being well observed at any time with ordinary telescopes. Since its last appearance in 1873, when only four observations were secured, the effect of perturbation has been to lengthen the period 36.5 days, and to retard the comet at perihelion by 38 days, the main part of this perturbation having been produced by Jupiter in 1875.
